PREFACE

We have attempted to document the cemeteries included in this compilation as completely as possible. Inscriptions were recorded verbatim and any unusual features noted to capture in words what a photograph would reveal. The community and cemetery sketch maps should aid the genealogist and family historian to locate the graves of ancestors with greater ease. Epitaphs and stonecutters' names, together with notes on designs and symbols carved on the monuments, may interest art historians, cultural anthropologists and geographers, folklorists, and other researchers.

The genealogical information, which follows most of the inscription sets, was provided by our three annotators, who were assisted by others whom they contacted for amplification and clarification of the facts. Their efforts reveal family alliances, lines of descent, and the origins of many west Cheatham families; we, the compilers, must claim responsibility for the difficult-to-read type used in the annotations. Our annotators contributed to this project in two other important ways: they helped us to locate at least a dozen of the sixty-two cemeteries, and they encouraged us to complete our work. Without their assistance this book would be thinner or it would not exist at all.

We wish to introduce the three ladies who spent countless hours searching their personal records and calling friends, relatives, and neighbors. The information presented here is only a portion of what they collected.

A native of Cheatham County, Edna (Zornes) Cabler was born near Cheap Hill in the home of her grandparents, Henry Abner and Fredonia Tennessee (Hunter) Pardue. She has researched the history of families in the county for over thirty-five years and has documented the Bell, Felts, Gupton, Hunt, Hunter, Pace, Pardue, Shaw, and Shearon families. Mrs. Cabler holds memberships in numerous historical, genealogical, and patriotic societies, including the Kentucky Historical Society, Tennessee Genealogical Society, and Montgomery Bell Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Alberta (Evans) Carrigan's parents, Albert Wesley and Florence (Hogan) Evans moved from Montgomery County to Cheatham County when she was a school girl. She and her husband, N. R. Carrigan, live in Hickory Point, a short distance from the Cheatham County line. Mrs. Carrigan traces her ancestry to the Chambliss, Evans, Hogan, Holt, Pinson, and David C. Smith families; her husband is a descendant of the Beardens, Childresses, Kings, Ransdells, and Rineharts.

Eleanor Shepherd Williams formerly edited The Cornsheller, the monthly publication of the Montgomery County Historical Society. She resides in Henrietta, where her husband James W. Williams' family has lived for over a century. Mrs. Williams is a member of the Tennessee Historical Society and several lineage societies, including the John Montgomery Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She has researched and documented the Bearden, Burton, Edwards, Harris, Hudgins, Nicholson, Smith, Teasley, Weakley and Williams families.

We gratefully acknowledge the contributions of Reeks Baggett, Mary Lou (Perry) Bagwell, Willie Mai (Gupton) Gifford, Ewing Gupton, Judge Thurman M. Gupton, Terry Gupton, Eleanor (Douglas) Harris, Lucile (Smith) Hewitt, B. G. Hogan, Anne (Hewitt) Hunter, Felix Hunter, Martha (Williams) Hunter, Gilbert Justice, Carline (Winters) Lipscomb, Henry T. Lipscomb, Charlie Mai (Swan) Murray, Maydell Nicholson, Cora (Nicholson) Poole, Dorothy (Nicholson) Shock, Helen (Fort) Smith, Barbara (Hunt) Tucker, Annie Laurie "Ree" (Nicholson) Williams, Ben M. Williams, James W. Williams, and Sophia (Pardue) Zornes. Their assistance with the annotations is sincerely appreciated.

There are other unnamed individuals we wish to thank. Among these are area residents who informed and directed us to cemeteries; in one instance, a man guided us through the woods to one small cemetery.

Connie Jackson of Crawford, Arkansas, designed the cover and Tom Foster helped with other graphics. Besides cutting and pasting pages of text, Dale Cheek spent long hours proofreading the manuscript. Special thanks goes to Donna Hogan for providing snacks and meals, running errands, babysitting in Cheatham County while we finished the fieldwork and during the many long evening and weekend work sessions in Memphis, and to Melissa Hogan who helped us to maintain our sense of humor.

We have endeavored to decipher handwriting, sort out conflicting annotations, and corroborate the information with census records. Many errors that crept into the manuscript have been eliminated. For those that were overlooked we accept full responsibility.

INTRODUCTION

The transcriptions included in this book were part of a larger project planned by the Daltons to expand Cheatham County's first census into a research tool for genealogists and historians by using tombstone inscriptions and published and manuscipt materials to further identify the individuals listed in the census schedules. While the annotations for the 1860 census remain incomplete, the schedules have been deciphered, typed and indexed, and publication is scheduled for 1986. The annotations should follow later.

After transcribing nearly forty cemeteries, the Daltons moved from Hickory Point, Tennessee, to Columbia, South Carolina, and then later to Memphis. The Hogans left Fredonia for Asheville, North Carolina, and later moved to Memphis. Together again, we spent holidays and weekends in Cheatham County and increased the number of cemeteries recorded to sixty-two. With the aid of local contacts we have identified all but one, which has been abandoned for generations and had no inscribed markers.

Cheatham County, Tennessee, was founded in 1856 from portions of Davidson, Dickson, Montgomery, and Robertson counties. The sixty-two cemeteries included in this collection are located in western Cheatham County in the fractions taken from Montgomery, Robertson, and Dickson counties.

Funeral services were held in the pioneer churches of the Half Pone Creek area, the earliest appears to have been Half Pone Baptist Church, which was organized before 1803. Whitworth's Methodist Church was established on Half Pone by 1820 and nearby Clifton's Methodist Church dates from 1825. By 1842, Rev. Sterling Brewer, a Methodist circuit rider, preached in twelve meetinghouses, including: Clifton's, Leeland, Mallory's, Powder Mills, Sanders, Shaw's, and Whitworth's. Baptist congregations built churches in Henrietta (Mt. Herman) and Bethel (Bethel Free Will Baptist). As the number of Methodists increased, Walton's Chapel (formerly Major's Chapel, 1849), Brewer's Chapel (1877), and Neptune (1910) were erected. The Cumberland Presbyterians attending Salem Church at Thomasville numbered thirty-nine in 1890. Blacks at Neptune organized and built New Hope Free Will Baptist Church ca. 1898.

The Cheap Hill Church of Christ has served that community for many years.

Veterans of all American wars are represented in this compilation. At least three Revolutionary War soldiers have been identified: Abner Gupton, John Teasley, and Thomas Bell. Families that were important in the organization and early government of the county, including the Powers and Williamses, are among those in the book. Henrietta (Christmas) Power, the possible namesake for Henrietta, is buried in the Power Cemetery, located on a ridge northeast of the community. Capt. S. D. Power, her grandson, served as the first superintendent of schools and newspaper editor and county attorney.

Cemeteries bear the names which appear on the USGS topographical survey maps or the designations given them by local residents; in the absence of either of these, the cemeteries were assigned the name that appears on the earliest adult monument. We learned that cemeteries are frequently renamed by the families using them, and in several cases a cemetery has two or more names. The condition of these important historical resources was disturbing. A number of the cemeteries were overgrown or had monuments toppled and trampled by livestock. We found it necessary on several occasions to probe for and extricate a buried stone.

The cemeteries for which we had incomplete but valuable information were included in the appendices. The Thomas Bell Cemetery has vanished entirely.

Throughout we have used as little punctuation as possible. Names in parentheses (Gupton) denote maiden names; those set off by quotation marks, "Red Bob" are nicknames; and females who married two or more times have hyphenated surnames. The # symbol followed by numerals refers to the number of a burial found elsewhere in the book.

The following abbreviations appear in the annotations and elsewhere:

In the Index, all Mc and Mac names are listed as if spelled Mac. Vanhook and Van Hook are grouped together. All known surnames appear for females who had multiple marriages. Unusual nicknames are indexed, but common ones, such as "Bob" or "Jim" are not. Always look for name variations, for example Nan, Nannie, and Nancy, and phonetic spellings of surnames: Stewart, Stuart, and Stuard. An indexed name may appear more than once on the cited page.

The sketch maps are not drawn to scale. Their purpose is to show the relative positions of the monuments in each cemetery.

PATTERSON CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 8, 1979

Location: The Patterson Cemetery is located approximately 1 mile north-northwest of the New Hope community, about 400 feet west of Hunley Branch Road.

Comments: Although not far from the road and accessible by foot, Patterson Cemetery cannot be seen from the county road. The field road to it is steep, narrow, and in poor repair, with heavy undergrowth on either side. Several tombstones are broken and the pieces of these were not found. Although the grass needed to be cut, the cemetery appeared to be cared for regularly.

HAGEWOOD CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 8, 1979

Location: The Hagewood Cemetery is located about 700 feet southeast of Hagewood Landing Road and approximately 1.6 miles north-northeast of the New Hope community.

Comments: Hagewood Cemetery can be reached by a field road that is in good condition. The one plot that was fenced individually has honeysuckle growing over the fence. Laid off in rows with many nice monuments and surrounded by a fence, the cemetery shows much evidence of regular care even though it needed mowing the day it was recorded.

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton, Robert E. Dalton, and Cleo G. Hogan

Date: December 29, 1984

Location: The Major Cemetery is located approximately 2.2 miles northwest of Neptune United Methodist Church.

Comments: The cemetery is badly neglected. Cattle have been allowed to wander through it; many of the stones have been knocked over and some of them broken. Part of the area is completely without grass, while the rest of the area is overgrown with tall grass and weeds. This cemetery is located by the side of a private driveway.

Comments: Wheeless-Green Cemetery is in an overgrown wooded area with a fence running through it. It is not located on the map. Date: December 31, 1984

Location: The Barton Cemetery is located about 1.5 miles west-northwest of Neptune United Methodist Church.

Comments: Barton Cemetery is on a curve at the end of Neptune Road between the farms of Dr. Shaw and James N. Humphreys (1854-1941). It cannot be seen from the paved county road. Pastured by cattle and covered with Virginia creeper in a wooded lot, this small cemetery needs attention to prevent further destruction. There are about 20-30 graves marked with fieldstones only.

PAGE CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 29, 1979

Location: The Page Cemetery is located approximately 1.1 miles northwest of Neptune United Methodist Church.

Comments: Page Cemetery, which is enclosed by a wire fence, has been used as a dump for some time. It is surrounded by a pasture, an old house site with a modern house trailer, and a county road which ends at the house site. The cemetery is covered with honeysuckle, heavy undergrowth, and many large trees. The undergrowth prevented a thorough search; there may have been other graves, both unmarked or marked with fieldstones. The two footstones found in the cemetery appear to be uninscribed, but the initials may have been obscured by the undergrowth.

The most unusual feature of this cemetery is the grave house, which is described as follows. Standing on 6 square posts, the grave house appears to be about 12 feet long, 7 feet wide, and 6 feet high. The rafters are made of 2 x 4s, as are the inside cross braces. A metal roof covers the structure. The grave area inside the house is protected by a square-mesh wire fence. The monument inside the grave house has a dove carved on the top.

BOBBITT-FORBES CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton, Robert E. Dalton, and Cleo G. Hogan

Date: December 29, 1984

Location: The Bobbitt-Forbes Cemetery is located approximately 0.5 mile east-northeast of Neptune United Methodist Church.

Comments: These graves are in a heavily overgrown area near a dilapidated barn on a county road. Both stone markers are down and covered with honeysuckle and blackberry vines. Although very near the side of the paved road, this cemetery was found only because it was marked on the quad; no noticeable signs from the road mark its existence.

SKAGGS CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 20, 1979

Location: The Skaggs Cemetery is located approximately 2.3 miles south-southwest of Cheap Hill Church of Christ.

Comments: Skaggs Cemetery is located on the paved county road leading to Cheatham Dam. It is protected by a cyclone fence which surrounds it. The double gate was padlocked with a combination lock. Although the day it was recorded the grass needed mowing, the cemetery appeared to be well kept. One grave was marked with a field stone and several graves were unmarked. A concrete marker from which the name plate was missing indicated the location of another grave. On one side of the area was a large clump of honeysuckle; on the other was a very old cedar tree.

Two unusual features were noted. One was that the graves were set at an angle to the fence in the enclosed area. The second was the grave marking for the grave numbered 1 in the inscriptions. This unique treatment is described there.

Inscriptions:

1. Wooden cross with MORGAN on the vertical member. A jug of clear liquid at base of cross with words "WHITE LIGHTNING" painted on it in black. Also MORGAN on rear of cross bar.

FAMBROUGH CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 27, 1979

Location: The Fambrough Cemetery is located approximately 1.9 miles west-northwest of Cheap Hill Church of Christ.

Comments: Fambrough Cemetery is not located on the map and we learned of its existence from one of the local residents. It is inaccessible except by foot. After driving down a field road about 3/4 mile, the cemetery is then reached by a 1/2 mile hike through the woods and up a hill. The area has not received attention for many years. At the site only three markers were found that contained information. The remains of a wooden marker were still present at one grave. Sunken areas gave evidence of many graves; although a few of these were marked with fieldstones, most of the graves had no visible marker.

WEAKLEY CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 20, 1979

Location: The Weakley Cemetery is located approximately 1.6 miles west of Cheap Hill Church of Christ.

Comments: Weakley Cemetery, located on an unimproved county road, is surrounded on three sides by a cast iron fence and on the fourth by a wire fence. Due to gross neglect the area was badly overgrown with trees, vines, and rotting logs. The area was also littered with unsightly debris. In the cemetery the graves were sunken, some were unmarked, but the carved stones were in good repair. A fence which had originally enclosed two graves had fallen down.

Recorded by: Cleo G. Hogan, Donna B. Hogan, and Eleanor S. Williams

Date: March 18, 1985

Location: The Plaster Clifton Cemetery is located about 1.5 miles northwest of Cheap Hill Church of Christ.

Comments: The cemetery is located in the edge of the woods on the east bank of Highway 12; it is barely visible from the highway. A cattle fence surrounds the cemetery which covers about one acre. Young trees and Vinca minor ground cover abound. A number of graves are marked with fieldstones.

J. S. STEWART CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 27, 1979

Location: J. S. Stewart Cemetery is located approximately 0.75 mile west of Cheap Hill Church of Christ.

Comments: Found by the side of the road, this cemetery is enclosed with a fence on three sides. It covers a rather large area, much of which has not yet been used. When visited most of the cemetery had been freshly mowed. An area in the back, which appears to be small, has been allowed to grow up in brush and grass; several fieldstone markers are visible. In the area that is maintained the graves are arranged in rows and the stones are in good condition; two stones have been broken.

PARDUE CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 20, 1979

Location: The Pardue Cemetery is located approximately 0.1 mile southwest of Cheap Hill Church of Christ.

Comments: Pardue Cemetery is located on the paved county road leading to Cheatham Dam. It was beginning to show signs of neglect, however, cutting the grass would have made a great improvement. The stones were generally in good repair, accessible, and legible. Initially the graves were laid out in rows and an overall plan seems to have been made. The cemetery appears to have been maintained and cared for on a regular enough basis through the years to prevent gross deterioration of the graves and stones.

EB GUPTON CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 5, 1979

Location: The Eb Gupton Cemetery is located near Henrietta approximately 0.7 mile south-southeast of Mount Herman Baptist Church.

Comments: Eb Gupton Cemetery is a well planned, fenced cemetery accessible by a dirt field road. Although the grass needed cutting the day the cemetery was recorded, it is evident that the area receives regular attention. The monuments are in good condition and the graves are placed in rows. Two unusual treatments of the monuments are noteworthy: Number 7 has the grave covered with a stepped concrete barrow and Number 9 has both the headstone and footstone set on English millstones.

Date: December 30, 1984

Location: The Hobson Nicholson Cemetery is located approximately 1.4 miles south-southeast of Mt. Herman Baptist Church.

Comments: Located on Highway 12, the Hobson Nicholson Cemetery is neat and well-kept. It is readily seen from the highway; the stones are in good condition. A fence protects the north side of the cemetery; a residence is located immediately to the south of it; the cemetery can be reached by the driveway to the house.

DOUGLAS CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton, Robert E. Dalton, and Cleo G. Hogan

Date: December 30, 1984

Location: The Douglas Cemetery is located approximately 0.6 mile southeast of Mt. Herman Baptist Church, Henrietta.

Comments: Although it can be seen from the paved Thomasville road, Douglas Cemetery is accessible only by foot. It is neglected; cattle wander through it, limbs and other debris litter the area, and shrubs and vines abound. Set in a grove of ten very old cedars on a ridge on the south side of the road, this cemetery has many graves marked only with fieldstones, none of which contains distinguishable markings.

POWER CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton, Robert E. Dalton, and Cleo G. Hogan

Date: December 30, 1984; January 1, 1970

Location: The Power Cemetery is located 1.1 miles east-southeast of Mount Herman Baptist Church.

Comments: The Power Cemetery cannot be seen from the county road and was not located on the quad map. It is on top of a wooded ridge in a pasture and must be reached on foot. The cemetery is in poor condition, cattle are allowed to roam through it, and most of the stone markers have been knocked down or broken. There were fieldstones scattered throughout the area which may have been marking graves.

In this cemetery two cairn-like monuments were found; they were lying side by side and running east and west. This is the only cemetery found by these recorders where this treatment of marking graves was done.

Date: April 28, 1979 and May 8, 1970

Location: Council Cemetery is located approximately 0.7 mile north-northwest of Bethel Free Will Baptist Church in a field near a county road.

Comments: Council Cemetery suffers from neglect over a period of years. It is heavily overgrown with trees, honeysuckle and other vines. There are many graves marked only with fieldstones; many other unmarked sunken graves were in evidence.

WALTON CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: April 15, 1979

Location: Walton Cemetery is located approximately 0.25 mile northwest of Bethel Free Will Baptist Church.

Comments: Although it can be seen from Highway 12, located in front of a vacant house, Walton Cemetery is not readily accessible. The old driveway leading from the highway to the house is impassible by car; the floor of the bridge spanning the deep ditch has rotted away, making even foot crossing difficult. Overgrown with trees and vines, most of the graves are sunken. Many graves are unmarked, while others are marked only with fieldstones. Two of these have names scratched on them. Only one carved stone, which has been knocked over, was found in the abandoned cemetery.

Date: April 29, 1979

Location: This unknown cemetery is located approximately 1.75 miles northeast of Bethel Free Will Baptist Church.

Comments: This cemetery contains only fieldstones as markers with no information found scratched on them; it is not known who is buried here. It is located on a field road in a back pasture about 1.5 miles from the county road, but the intersection of the field road with the county road is not on the map. The cemetery grounds suffer from neglect; they are overgrown and the east end of the fence enclosing some of the graves is down. There is evidence of unmarked sunken graves in the area also.

TEASLEY CEMETERY--1816

Recorded by: Cleo G. Hogan, Donna B. Hogan, and Eleanor S. Williams

Date: March 19, 1985

Location: The Teasley-1816 Cemetery is located about 1.3 miles southeast of Bethel Free Will Baptist Church.

Comments: Covering about a half acre, this abandoned cemetery is located on a heavily wooded ridge southwest of Dry Fork Creek; there is evidence that some of the cedar and hardwood trees have been recently harvested. Fieldstones mark at least two dozen graves. On the north slope of the ridge there is a section reserved for slave burials, and the graves, only three of which have distinguishable inscriptions, are marked with fieldstones.

STACK-BAGGETT CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 6, 1979

Location: The Stack-Baggett Cemetery is located approximately 2.3 miles north-northwest of Mallory's United Methodist Church in Thomasville.

Comments: The Stack-Baggett Cemetery cannot be seen from the county road but is accessible by a field road. The stones are in good condition and the graves laid out in rows. There was evidence of the cemetery receiving regular attention and care even though the grass needed mowing.

SHEARON-JACKSON CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 6, 1979

Location: The Shearon-Jackson Cemetery is located approximately 1.3 miles northwest of Mallory's United Methodist Church in Thomasville.

Comments: Shearon-Jackson Cemetery is right on the side of a county road. Sunken areas give evidence of many graves, most of which are either unmarked or marked with blank fieldstones. Initials were found scratched on four of the fieldstones and five carved stones were found in place. Along one side was a debris-filled ditch which contained pieces of a broken carved stone. No information was found on any of the available stone fragments, and there was too much underbrush to make a thorough search for the missing pieces. This cemetery has been neglected and is in dire need of attention.

NOTE: This cemetery was cleaned in 1983.

Recorded by: Cleo G. Hogan, Donna B. Hogan, and Eleanor S. Williams

Date: March 19, 1985

Location: The J. A. Nicholson Cemetery is located approximately 1.6 miles south-southwest of Mallory's United Methodist Church.

Comments: This cemetery is located in a field corner protected by a barbed wire fence adjacent to a paved county road north of Raccoon Creek. There are two large old dogwoods and an old cedar in the cemetery, and the entire area is heavily overgrown with briars. It has been abandoned since ca. 1934.

STACK CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 6, 1979

Location: The Stack Cemetery is located approximately 1.8 miles north-northwest of Mallory's United Methodist Church in Thomasville.

Comments: Located in an open field, this small cemetery is surrounded by a cyclone fence. Honeysuckle and broomsage have been allowed to grow in the middle of the east fence making a search for stones in this area impossible. A snake was seen in this growth. The entire area was overgrown with weeds and blackberry vine sprouts; however, it appears as if these are cut occasionally in an effort to care for the cemetery.

MALLORY'S UNITED METHODIST CHURCH CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 26, 1979

Location: The Mallory's United Methodist Church Cemetery is located north of and on the same tract as the church in Thomasville.

Comments: This cemetery on the grounds of Mallory's United Methodist Church is large and well-kept and appears to serve the entire community. The grass, shrubs, and flowers appear to be carefully tended. The monuments are in good condition and the graves carefully arranged in neat rows.

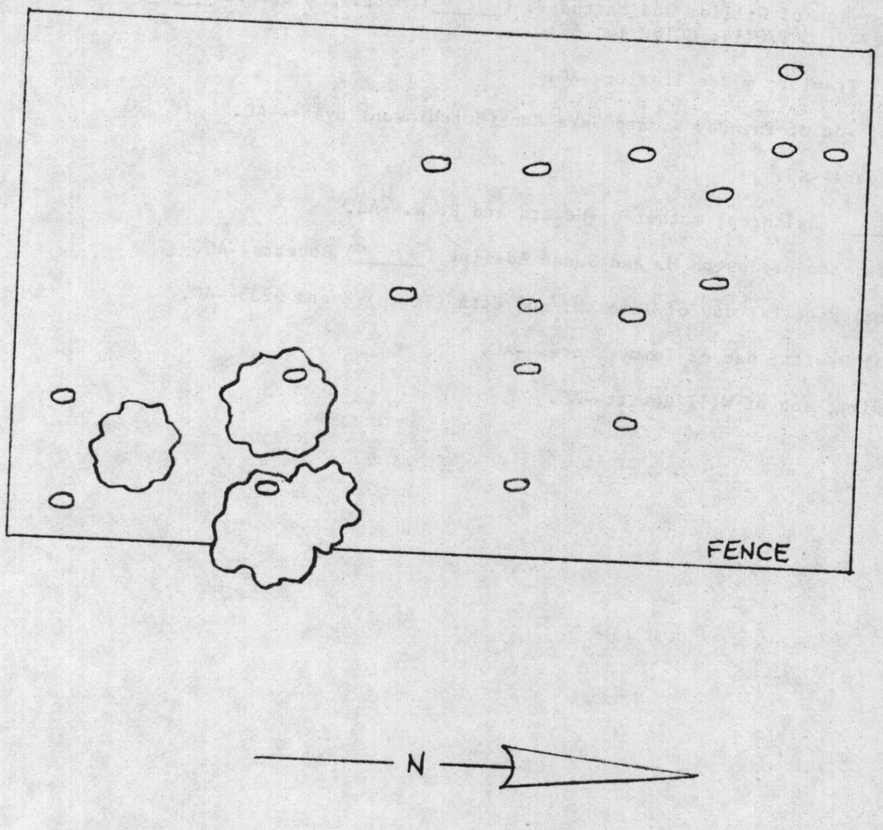
LINK CEMETERY



LINK CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 29, 1979

Location: Link Cemetery is located approximately 0.2 mile southeast of Mallory's United Methodist Church in Thomasville.

Comments: This small cemetery contains only fieldstones with no detectable markings to indicate the location of the graves. It is inaccessible by road; it can be reached by foot by walking across a field of high grass and a barnyard. Neglect over a period of years is evident from the undergrowth of heavy vines, scrub brush, climbing roses, trees, dead limbs, and other debris cluttering the cemetery. Some of the graves located were sunken. This graveyard is protected by a fence to keep the cattle out of it.

NOTE: At the time this cemetery was located and recorded its name was unknown to the recorders. It has since been identified as the Link family cemetery. A memorial monument to those buried in this cemetery has been placed in the Mallory's United Methodist Church Cemetery. (See #37)

HEWITT CEMETERY

Recorded by: Lynette H. Dalton and Robert E. Dalton

Date: May 28, 1979

Location: The Hewitt Cemetery is located approximately 1.2 miles south-southeast of Mallory's United Methodist Church in Thomasville.

Comments: Hewitt Cemetery is a very small, well kept cemetery located in a side yard and next to a pasture. A fence keeps the cattle out of the graveyard. A good gravel county road makes it easily accessible. The grass had been cut recently and the stones were in good condition.
